

Moore County's Public Information Office and Moore County's Cooperative Extension offer a 'Kids Government 101-Leadership' course.

This exciting 3 day leadership program is geared towards the younger Moore County residents between the ages of 10-18, who want to understand and share in the workings of our local government. The participants in this program get a first hand experience by shadowing with different departments during this event as well as question and answer sessions with County Manager and Directors.

There is typically an emphasis in specific areas of the County.
